- Potency and Dosage: Products with 1000mg of THC are considered very potent and are recommended for experienced cannabis users. If you are new to cannabis, it is crucial to start with a very low dose and increase it gradually.
- Legal Status: The legality of cannabis products varies by state and local jurisdiction. You should consult local regulations before purchasing or consuming any cannabis product.

- Safety and Health Risks: Cannabis edibles can have delayed and prolonged effects compared to smoking or vaping. It's crucial to be aware of the potential risks associated with high-potency cannabis edibles, such as overconsumption, anxiety, paranoia, and potential interactions with other medications. Driving or operating machinery under the influence of cannabis is illegal and dangerous.
- Third-Party Testing: When choosing cannabis products, look for brands that provide third-party lab testing results to verify the product's potency and ensure it is free from contaminants.
